

This happens when a liquid changes to a gas.

The process where water evaporates out of plant leaves.

Water moves from clouds to land as...

Underground, porous rock is called...

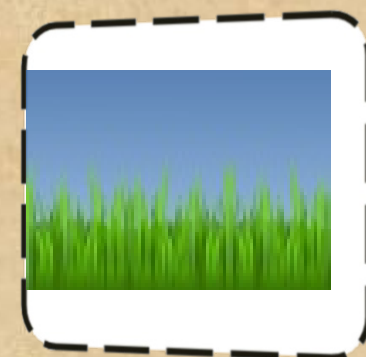

Where does the water cycle get it's heat energy from?

The land area where water drains to a given point is called...

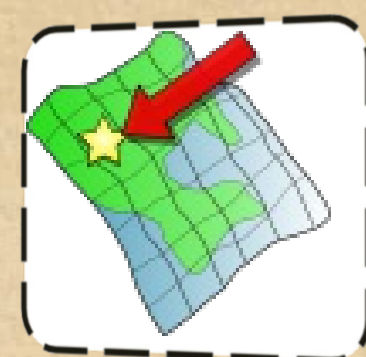

Water vapor rises and cools to form...

Water stored beneath the Earth's surface is called...

Cool air in the atmosphere causes gas to change to a liquid through this process.

On a topographic map, the steeper the hill, the _____ the lines will be.