

This is something you could use to find your way out of a certain monster's maze.

What is the something that belongs to this watery creature with a fishy tail.

Something sharp and pointy belongs to this creature, can you guess what it is?

What will you find in this pot under the rainbow and who does it belong to?

One of these escaped from the head of this Goddess. What's her name?

What lunch will be served at the top of the mountain for this fellow?

This object has been used many times to try and capture this mythical beast.

You could use this object to write a letter but from whom did you pluck it?

This scaly object protects the owner from harm, but who does it belong to?

This headgear belongs to a special trickster, what's his name?

