

What kind of makeup do ghosts wear?

On little padded feet, I walk with steps light.
My nose is soft pink, my fur is dark as night.

Lines of silk, feet four by four, I get stuck in your hair when hung by a door.

By day I clean floors, free from dust and dirt. At night I fly, hold on tight, don't get hurt.

Open my head, scoop out my brains, light a candle and hope it doesn't rain!

I live in a stone house, ancient and old.
Don't open my house or a curse will unfold!

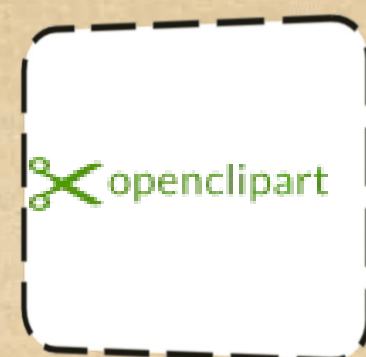

No feet or hands, yet there's much I can do.
I float and fly and like to scream, Boo!

I sleep all day, at night I wander free. When I look in the mirror, there's nothing to see.
