Roses are red, violets are blue, hope you find me fast to get your next clue.

The zoom of the cars make me want to run home.The hard bricks are so hard to sleep on.

Birds come here for a drink, but they have left this place because of a drought!

Eww, all I can smell is rotten food as I see ants crawling up wall for a thanksgiving feast.

I here the footsteps of people walking out to the garden, the screeching is a definite pain to the ear.

Ding.....Dong!! The mail man leaves clue number 6 awaiting your hands. Hurry,do not leave him hanging!!!!!

I am next to one of the most daily uses of the garden.Its like a game of hide and seek.

swish swish, I can here the water from the toilets pass below me.Caution, the cover of this contraption is dangerous i tell you

Splish splash, in order to find clue number 9, you need to dive deep....under the sea.So get everything ready for an adventure

Race to the table, and solve the puzzle.there will be a picture on the puzzle. you must find the item shown.Once found, bring it back to the table.first team with the item at the table wins.Good luck

(C) Copyright 2010 All rights reserved ScavengerHunt.org