

I travel slowly on land but swim quickly in the water.

I keep the sun and the rain off your head.

I wear these to keep the sun out of my eyes on the beach.

I bit you if you sit on me but you can eat me for dinner!

You can wear me around your neck, I'm made of shells from the ocean.

Wear these on your feet to keep the sand from burning them.

I grow bit and tall, and I sway in the breeze.

The waves bring me to shore early in the morning.

Touch the ceiling, touch the sky, get on me, and you will fly.

I can go great distances at varying speeds. To move even an inch you are what I need.
