

Find a place where actors can relax and rehearse and prepare quietly before a show.

Go find a place which is dark until the spring musical when it comes to life with music.

This place is where actors or crew members go when they have to "go."

Forgot a line or a scene change? This is where the stage manager will be to ask a question.

How does an actor or crew member get from one side of the stage to the other without being seen by the audience?

If I had a hammer, or a nail, or a tool, this is where it would live and be stored.

Oh no, the last audience made a mess of the theatre. Where can we find supplies to get it cleaned before the next show?

Hungry during a show? This is the place to go for food, or for extra tables if you're in charge of setting an event up.

Cast and crew should stand behind this during the show so no one in the audience can see you.

At the end of the show, this gets closed, the person is strong enough.
