

Look for the home of the bats. They sleep during the day and eat bugs at night! They migrate to Mexico in the Winter!

I like to eat the butterfly food on the feeders. Most people don't like me, but I am just looking for yummy food!

I like to hang out in my box. I sleep during the day and sometimes watch you pass.

I spin a web and wait for food. I am part of nature and the important food chain. Look for me along the way!

You may see me flutter, land and rest, but really I am feeding on nectar like the rest.

I fly in the sky. I land in the trees and if you are lucky, you can watch me.

We dig deep in the earth to build our home. We live in large colonies and work together to live

We are ladies but we are not all girls. We have pretty colors and help keep pests off crops.

I hop around and even have wings to help me go long distances. Our hide legs are made for great jumping!

We look scary and will sting. We are part of the insect world too. We carry our babies on our backs.
